

The Earthstock Foundation is honored to announce its Alliance for Regenerative Communities initiative.

This is an invitation to your community,

The regenerative roundtable is an inclusive and non hierarchal opportunity to enhance connectivity and build synergy in a specific bioregion. To organize in regards to identifying community resources and strategize action items.

This inclusive process assists in connecting resources that can be any individual or organization involved in resilience, sustainability or regenerative activities.

The regenerative round table focuses specifically on the connectivity of environment, health, arts, peace & justice, sustainable living, community building and independent media.

The intention is to:

1. Generate collaborations and action items to cultivate and accelerate implementing practical solutions to regional issues.
2. To nurture an environment of collaboration not competition and enhance the overall quality of life for all.
3. Elevate regional resilience and self sustainability.
3. To activate the Source Directory Regenerative Network.
4. Promote the ongoing regional events and broadcasts.
5. Establishing an Institute of Regenerative Communities in the Crestone Colorado area.

I will be conducting a tour of the Southwest between January 10th to January 25th.

Locations will include Boulder/Denver & Crestone Colorado, Taos/Santa Fe New Mexico, Flagstaff and Sedona Arizona and the Hopi & Navajo Reservations.

This event can also be accompanied by a sacred music concert to help generate funds for the tour.

In service,

Michael DiMartino
Earthstock Foundation (Official non profit) alliance4regencommunities@gmail.com
www.EarthstockFoundation.org
530-362-8264

